Ruby eyes Demo nomination

By DAVID ESPO

Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — Former Democratic state senator Ray Ruby said today he will become a formal candidate for lieutenant governor after the current legislative session ends.

Ruby said his formal declaration would come later this year, barring only "some unforeseen circumstances."

The former Rexburg senator also said he was interested in promoting party unity and harmony, and would be discussing his possible candidacy with party leaders before he formally announces his decision.

He said he had already discussed his possible candidacy with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus several times, but that Andrus had expressed no preference about a possible running mate for this fall.

Sources in the governor's office have indicated that Ruby would be an acceptable running mate for the governor, however.

Brewer, retailer at odds over bill

By DAVID ESPO

BOISE — A Magic Valley senator's efforts to ban non-returnable beverage containers in Idaho will be recycled once again Monday by a Senate committee.

Members of the Resources and Environment Committee agreed to a public hearing on Sen. John Peavey's proposal after a brewer and a representative of retail outlets clashed over the bill's merits.

William Coors, president of the Adolph Coors Co., told the committee the bill was sound — and if something wasn't done to help recycle aluminum brewers might not have cans to put their beer in after a few years.

Coors also told the committee that non-returnable beverage containers were "disasters for the energy," problem the country faces. Coors said his company and independent research groups have done indicate recycling aluminum for cans is worthwhile from a point of view of the energy saved in the long run.

Coors acknowledged the point of critics of the bill who claim the consumer will go out of his way to return the containers for recycling. But he also said Coors is working on a compact machine that will be able to compress cans without losing up a minimum of space. He said the machine will eventually be marketable for a $200 cost.

Tim Brennan, executive secretary for the Idaho Food Dealers Association, said the bill would place too great a strain on the retailer who would have to accept the containers for recycling. Brennan said opponents of the proposed law were "attempting to write it so (they) can dupe the grocer into thinking he won't have to take them back," and then admitting they will have to take them back.

He said the concept behind the proposal was "clearly that the grocer would be the dispose-all for the community."

Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, asked Brennan whether his group had come up with any alternatives to the bill.

Brennan replied that a group of people he represents had been meeting to discuss the litter and energy problem Peavey's proposal attempts to solve, but had no firm solutions.

Oil shale exploration may transform regions

(c) New York Times Service

DENVER — The rush to exploit oil shale threatens to radically transform one of the last sleepy regions of the mountain West.

There is little dispute that the area within a 15-mile radius of the point where Colorado, Utah and Wyoming borders meet is about to be routed out of its reclusiveness. It is an area inhabited by more sheep, cattle and deer than people.

It is a key question, the focus of brooding controversy, how much disruption will there be? The answer depends on how energy companies decide to exploit their shale holdings, what mining technique they employ and how much attention they pay to environmental protection.

At the moment, they have four options:

- Surface open pit mining.
- Undermined room and pillar mining.
- In-situ processing, in which the shale is heated conventionally underground and only shale oil is brought to the surface.
- Underground in-situ processing, using nuclear explosives to cook the oil from the shale.

The open pit method (in which the shale is hauled to a retorting plant, the oil heated out and the spent shale dumped) is under the most active consideration.

This method is said by its developers to be the only commercially feasible process now. But it is also the most disruptive to the environment, requiring gigantic earth-moving projects, mountaintop of spent shale and the largest numbers of miners and workers.

Underground, room and pillar mining is similar in that the shale is brought to the surface for processing. One in-situ process has been announced and others have been studied, but none has yet proved commercially acceptable. An in-situ process using nuclear explosives is held by atomic scientists to be technically feasible, but it has not been tested and it poses radiation dangers.

Because the shale varies in thickness and depth, a different method for each mining site may be economically feasible.

Developers say, for example, that shale formations near the surface may best be mined in-situ processing. In any case, because the government controls 80 percent of the shale lands, it must weigh environmental concerns along with energy requirements in approving each company's mining proposal.

God 'calls' man to murder

FAYETTE, Miss. (UPI)

Frank Liss told Major Charles Evers that he wanted to stay in Evers' motel during the weekend to think out some of his family and financial problems.

Liss, a 20-year-old high school dropout and unemployed carpenter, calmly told police he had killed seven persons—his wife, infant daughter and five other relatives—with a .22-caliber automatic rifle. No one person was shot but survived.

Evers said he shot them as they slept during the predawn hours Monday because he had been "called" to do so by God. "He came over Friday night and asked me if I would spend the night in my motel," Evers said. "I told him we had family trouble."

Sheriff J.E. Wallace, like Evers, said he had known Liss, one of 14 children of the Rev. Martin Liss Sr., for years and described him as "quiet and church-going."

The sheriff said Liss told him he had been "communicating with God since he was 12 years old."

He said it wouldn't be long before he joined his two dead brothers in "Waco City." He said he had kept a diary in which he wrote his mother was dead."

Martin Liss Jr., an older brother, said Frank told him he had heard "voices" before the shooting began early Monday morning.

"He said God called him and said 'Come unto me and bring those surrounding you,'" the brother said.

The slender Liss, wearing an Afro hair style, gave Wallace a three-page, hand-written confession addressed "Dear God" and quoting several verses from the Bible. Authorities would not reveal the rest of the content.

The dead were Liss' wife, Carol Eve, 18; his daughter, Kenetta, 11 months; Dennis Ross, 4; Dennis Williams, 17; Leo McDonald, 37; Jimmy Ross Williams, 39; and Toni Ross, 17.

An eighth victim, Freda Ross, 19, was in critical condition at a Jackson hospital Monday night.

Police said the bodies of Mrs. Liss and Kenetta and a sister-in-law, Toni, were found on a bed in her son Dennis' white house trailer. In another room, police found the body of Dennis, a brother-in-law.

Liss told police he climbed through the window of the house where his in-laws were living, about 20 feet away, and shot the other four. All were shot once in the head with a .22-caliber automatic rifle.

TWIN FALLS — William Bower, 36, Twin Falls, was admitted to Magic Valley Memorial hospital early this morning for treatment of a forehead laceration he received in a one-car accident.

The accident occurred at about 5:30 a.m. this morning three and one-fourth miles west of Twin Falls on Highway 30 when his small late model sedan left the roadway and struck a metal sign. Bower was traveling east in a rainstorm at the time.

Elvin Alstion, corporal, Idaho State Police, investigating officer, said Bower's vehicle sustained about $1,600 damage to the front end.

Work is being directed by Jack Anderson, Wells, who owns the Twin Falls Anderson Construction Co.

Indoor arena eyed for CSI

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — An indoor show arena may come to the College of Southern Idaho.

College trustees Monday discussed the possibility of erecting an arena which would house livestock shows, boat shows, and car exhibits as well as classes. Frontier Field just north of the college is available.

Douglas Robie Blasback, a member of the committee looking into possible uses of the field, said the arena would be an asset to agricultural vocational education by providing space for courses like artificial insemination and stock management.

Blasback said the college would profit from the structure by charging for show space.

CSI President James L. Taylor estimated the college might gain $10,000 yearly from the arena. He said, however, students would have top priority of its use.

In recent years Frontier Field has been used by a riding club. The resident manager of the club has agreed to clear the field of all livestock by June 1, according to trustee Eldon Evans, also on the Frontier Field committee.

Evans said the committee has "no concrete recommendations" yet but said a plan for the field will be ready soon.

A new, on-campus vocational education building may be ready for use within a year use with a year and a half, Taylor told the board.

CSI attorney Robert Alexander was asked to research all possible ways of raising money to build the structure.

On another matter, Taylor said he will be appearing before the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee in Boise today to request more funding.

At the previous board meeting Taylor said Gov. Cecil Andrus' budget for junior colleges falls $500,000 short. The budget is $1.8 million, an increase of just $600 over last year.

Taylor said he would also appear before the House Education Committee.

Just before this board meeting Taylor told the Times the average cost of education at CSI is about $1,000 less per capita than the costs of education at any of the four year state schools. He attributed this to efficient operation.

Taylor said the state's two junior colleges have students from 42 to 45 percent of Idaho's 44 county areas, and that the two schools are now educating 14 percent of the lower division students in the state.

A new, on-campus vocational education building may be ready for use within a year use with a year and a half, Taylor told the board.

Women need full US citizenship

It is incredible that citizens of the United States should be denied equal protection of the laws because of their sex.

Nevertheless it is clear there are a number of laws in force which discriminate against women or men.

Idaho was one of the first states to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) shortly after the amendment was approved by Congress. Now only five more states need ratify it before it becomes part of the Constitution.

But during the two legislative sessions since the ERA was first approved in Idaho, a loose coalition of legislators has attempted to rescind ratification. This year, on the third try, the ERA opponents managed to squeeze an anti-ERA measure through the House.

The Senate first effectively killed the bill through a procedural maneuver, then caucused today to reconsider that action.

The Senate should stand by its earlier support of the ERA.

Women are not an inferior breed of citizen. Their citizenship should offer the same rights and bear the same responsibilities as that of men.

Foreign investment welcome in America

Chicago Tribune

The energy crisis and soaring petroleum prices are pouring billions of dollars in American and foreign currency into Arab treasuries. When the oil embargo ends, the flow will probably accelerate. The oil producing countries are wisely seeking to put this windfall to work in industrial projects at home and investments abroad. Since the Arab countries are already taking in more than they can spend at home, most of the dollars will be used for investment.

Until the energy crisis, Japan, too, was putting its huge trade surpluses to work, buying land, businesses, and a number of congressmen and senators have introduced legislation that would prohibit foreign control of US corporations.

Such legislation would be a mistake—instead of placing limits on foreign investments, we should encourage them. If the United States is to become self-sufficient in energy once again, it is estimated that the oil companies will need $200 to $500 billion in capital investment by 1990. The steel industry also needs new sources of capital if it is to expand and modernize its facilities to meet future demand.

Private American investments abroad amount to more than twice the value of foreign investments in the US.

The bulk of foreign money goes into American securities, but this is a highly volatile investment because of the vagaries of the stock market. Moreover, those who are concerned about foreign control of American business and American jobs should consider this: The total foreign investment in the American stock market amounts to no more than the year-end market value of IBM stock alone.

Throughout American history, much of the US economic development has been financed through foreign investments. Nobody is more interested in a country's stability and economic well-being than those whose money is invested in it.

Had the United States encouraged Saudi Arabia to plow its oil profits into US investments years ago, as the Saudi government wanted to do, it is doubtful that an oil embargo would have been imposed.

We should therefore welcome foreign investments and encourage foreign participation in American prosperity. In time, the pendulum will undoubtedly swing back. To interfere by imposing controls on foreign capital now would invite retaliation and we have far more to lose from controls because of our much higher level of investments overseas.

Government not working

WASHINGTON—One of my favorite newspapers, the Gary, Ind., Post-Tribune, has put its editorial finger on a question that may linger right up to Jan. 20, 1976, and has come up with a gloomy conclusion.

The question is whether President Nixon is so preoccupied with his troubles over the ethical health of his administration that he has lost the capacity to govern. No equivocation flavors the Tribune's answer to this question. It declares flatly: "Today there is no Presidential leadership."

Now the Post-Tribune comes as close as possible to being what is called an independent newspaper. Its proprietors are neither professional Nixon haters nor professional Nixon lovers. So far as I have been able to ascertain over the years, it gives no allegiance to either party and has no political pals. Thus, what the Post-Tribune had to say in an editorial headed "Foreign Aid and Watergate" is important and thought-provoking reading.

The newspaper noted one of my recent columns declared that the House reflected the public mood in voting down a proposal to contribute $1.5-billion to a World Bank program for helping the poorer nations. If so, however, the Post-Tribute said, "The public mood just was wrong." Read on, if you will.

"...we think the public mood was wrong are three. First, considerable of that proposed loan money was to go to Subsaharan Africa, where there is actual threat of famine...

Second, while it is true that the United States would have been paying more than (the other richer nations)... other nations are devoting a larger share of their gross national product to such projects than are we." Third, while there doubtless has been waste in many such projects... we still have a large stake as a people in attempting to help developing nations develop in a hopeful and orderly fashion rather than leaving them threatened to erupt in chaos.

At the point where Watergate is concerned is that President Nixon's veto of the measure—at least by lip service—yet the vote against it was more heavily Republican than Democratic.

ANDREW TULLY

"Today there is no Presidential leadership. That is partly because faith in the Presidency has been deeply undermined by the tangle of unanswered questions. It is partly because the President is too involved in such concern to devote the time he needs to affairs of government."

"More than foreign aid is concerned here. More, perhaps—except in the view of those who may be about to die of hunger—may be involved than seeking to save lives. What is involved is the ongoing operation of government."

"It isn't working."

In short, a President cannot govern if he cannot persuade Congress to buy his programs, and Secretary of State Kissinger's sharp criticism of the House vote left no doubt that the World Bank project was an important Presidential program.

Especially on legislation requiring the appropriation of funds, Congress can veto a President's requests. And if a President can't even influence members of his own party, the government isn't operating.

Voters 'blew it' when bonds lost

Editor, Times-News:

I have put in more than 2,000 hours as a volunteer for a past president of the auxiliary at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. I feel that this gives me the right to say that the people of Twin Falls County really "blew it" when they did not go to the polls last Tuesday and vote "yes" on the hospital bond issue.

Magic Valley Memorial has become and will continue to be a "medical center for all of Southern Idaho and Northern Nevada, and in my opinion, due to the "don't give a damn attitude" of people, everyone loses out. The downtown business people and merchants who worked long, hard hours prompting the issues and who also spent a great deal of their own money; hospital administration; personnel and volunteers who gave of their time freely to assist the public with the facts of why Magic Valley Memorial is needed and every improvement the doctors whose patients has jumped from 39 to 62, and who unless efforts will be greatly jeopardized in completely carrying out their various specialties; and last but not least the people who demand the best care possible when they are sick. It is my guess that those who didn't bother to vote will be just the ones to complain the most.

There is no such thing as a "sure thing," and had only 92 more concerned citizens voted "yes" we would have had an excellent medical center, including outpatient care, as Boise and Salt Lake.

What move is right?

(C) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Confronting the demon of economic downturn, President Nixon extended his arms, flashed the ancient thumbs-up sign, and pronounced the mystic incantation: "There will be no recession."

Doing this, like advisers like Treasury Secretary George Shultz allowed as how the President's prophecy would self-fulfill, provided one accepts the Nixon definition of a recession—Economist Herbert Stein—agreed, adding under his breath, "But we're sure gonna have the littlest boom you ever saw."

What must disturb these two believers in economic freedom is the President's willingness to make economic decisions for political reasons—that is, to listen to the Populist demand, "Do something!"

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Last summer, popularity economics called for a strengthened price freeze; by satisfying the damage-lust to "do something," the President—overruling Shultz and Stein—succeeded only in creating shortages and confusion.

This year, popularity economics calls for an evasion of recession at any cost, in a perversion of Keynesianism that says "inflation irritates, but recession infuriates." Some recession is surely necessary to restrain inflation—and improve productivity, but a natural downturn would not help the President's plan-for-political survival.

At a time when the President is especially tempted to take "the popular course," a special responsibility falls on those who always call on him: "We should..." above all, avoid a "do something" in the same breath—demand he "do something" about rising prices, and "do something" about shortages induced by price controls.

Such demagogic demands can no longer be made with impunity: The President is now all too likely to respond to them.

Controls have failed; let's admit it. Heavy federal spending and a tax cut could avert a recession, let's admit that, too—but at a cost in inflated prices and reduced real earnings that make it something that is wrong to do.

Instead, let's consider a capitalist's manifesto:

Laissez-faire of the world, "unite! You have nothing to lose but your Keynes."

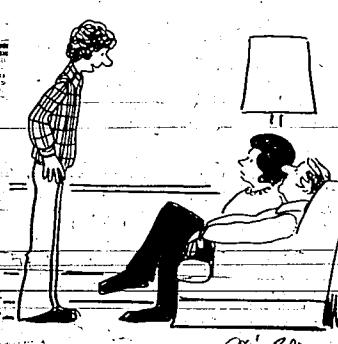

Thought for the day

Check needed

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 56 and my periods stopped a year ago last month. I got my period again. Is it possible for me to get pregnant at my age? Do I still have to use some kind of contraceptive? — H. B.

I would say you need no alarm over pregnancy—but it would be wise to have your doctor do some checking. This may not have been, actually, a "period," but rather bleeding from some other cause. A Pap test is essential.

Likewise are you taking hormones? That sometimes can cause what we call "breakthrough" bleeding, which usually is corrected by adjusting the dosage.

Something is wrong with a guy who doesn't sleep well. And that's us.

In all the years we have been getting up early to get ready for work we have set an alarm clock on the lamp-table beside the bed. We set it for 5:30 a.m.—in the summer and 6 a.m. in the winter. Don't really know why we make the change unless it is because that extra 30 minutes of warm surroundings might prepare us for the winter tasks.

But that's not what we really want to discuss. What we are getting at is in all these years—as we say—the alarm clock rarely wakes us up once. On all those other mornings we would wake up ahead of the alarm, snap it off and then get out of bed. Only once did the bell ring—and it about scared us to death.

stocks in silver mining and in industries which use silver heavily.

A year ago the price of silver was around $2 an ounce. It has jumped more than $2 since Jan. 1, and US dealers said it was bringing about $5.70 on Feb. 12 in the spot (immediate) market.

Fee-market gold is in the $145 range, up nearly $20 per ounce since the first of the year. Meanwhile, the US dollar has been slipping in recent days.

The price of platinum also is soaring.

Experts attribute the shift toward precious metals to poor securities markets to fears of what inflation is doing to conventional currencies, to hopes that some countries may boast the value of their currency pegs to gold and to pure speculation by big buyers. The price of silver is linked to that of gold by some dealers who believe there is a formula for relating their values.

Dr. Henry Jurecki, manager of a New York silver dealer named Moggin Metals, describes the silver market as a "chaotic" one which is moving on small volume. He predicts that it eventually will turn downward, "although who can say whether it will fall from $10 to $6 or from $6 to $3?"

A London newspaper said Nelson Bunker Hunt, son of Texas oil baron H. L. Hunt, has invested about $168 million in silver and profited by $84 million during the last month.

Hunt alone, the newspaper said, has provided much of the impetus for silver trading in London, in Dallas, a secretary for Hunt said Hunt is in the silver business but wouldn't comment on the report.

Exports said the are about 300 to 500 million ounces of silver in "visible stock" worth at least $1.5 billion in today's prices.

It's possible, they say, that someone with several hundred million dollars could work profound effects on silver prices.

There's a reason for not sleeping well

We suppose, though, that if we didn't have the alarm set we would sleep forever!

You will not believe it—but it is true—Mr. Spectator is one of those guys who can wake up at any hour he wishes just by concentrating on that particular time as he falls asleep.

CHEERFUL THOUGHT
We have had some wonderful days recently—weatherwise. Which causes us to remark that it will not be long before those darned earwigs are around again.

IT'S INTERESTING

Interesting things happen—Remember awhile back when we had the story about Fred Moore, who used to be a streetcar conductor in the midwest and was one of two living students pictured in the school class of Liberty, Mo.? Well, John P. Cox, who used to be known hereabouts as "Ozark Slim," wandered in the other day and said he was born near that town and lived in that town as a kid. He came to Twin Falls in 1944. He had a long talk with Mr. Moore about the place, and both enjoyed the discussion.

PASSING SIGNS

One of our "elite" friends—that's a friend who looks around and sees things we cannot see because we aren't there—tells us that all highway signs between Twin Falls and Jarbidge have misspelled Jarbidge. They spell it Jarlige.

Machinists eye Nixon ouster

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
BAL HARBOUR, Fla. — A poll of the 90,000-member International Assn. of Machinists and Aerospace Workers shows 72 per cent of those responding favor President Nixon's resignation or impeachment.

The poll showed 49 per cent of respondents believe Nixon should resign and 23.2 per cent answered Congress should move for impeachment. The sampling of union members also showed dissatisfaction with the Nixon administration's handling of the fuel shortage and the price and wage control program, scheduled to die April 20.

Floyd Smith, president of the union, second largest in the AFL-CIO, said yesterday the members, who were a significant source of support for Nixon in 1972, have become disenchanted.

"They are becoming convinced that their government is rigged for the benefit of big corporations and the richest families," he said.

Smith is here for a meeting of the executive council of the AFL-CIO, which is pushing for Nixon's impeachment.

In the IAM survey, 15,000 questionnaires were sent to union members by a computer which selected every 50th name on the group's mailing list.

Nearly 5,000 union members responded, an unusually heavy response — for such a survey and nearly double the number who have answered previous IAM questionnaires, according to a union official.

Regarding Nixon's s

Undecided

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., says he is not well enough known nationally to consider running for the presidency in 1976, but this might change by the end of the year.

Bentsen has said he plans to spend most of 1974 campaigning for Democratic senators and helping them raise money.

"Then, at the end of the year we'll see how we've done, and then decide whether it is a realistic thing or not to do. I know the place where a man can do the most for his country is right down at the White House... so we'll look at it then and decide what should be done."

Red warns of music, fashions from West

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Communist party official has warned Lithuania's young people to beware of "senseless" Western music and "extravagant" fashions, according to the Svetkaya Lita newspaper.

The newspaper's Sunday edition, which reached Moscow today, said A. Barkuska, secretary of the Central Committee of Lithuania, made the comments to a congress of the Komsomol (Young Communists). The congress was held in Vilnius, capital of the Baltic public annexed by the Soviets in 1940.

"Imperialist propaganda and anti-Soviets are constantly looking for ways to allow bourgeois ideology, Western standards of living and bourgeois morals to penetrate into our society," he said.

"With this view, they impose on our youth senseless music and extravagant fashions which basically began with the immoral movement of the so-called hippies."

Barkuska said young people should be more critical about things coming from abroad. "Our class enemies hope that non-political ways are the best means to use to disarm the youth of the Socialist countries ideologically," he said.

He appealed to author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn and said, "There is no place in our society for renegades and degenerates."

Missile tests set

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union announced Monday it will carry out three weeks of mid-Pacific missile tests starting Tuesday and warned all ships and planes to stay clear.

The Tass news agency said the tests would take place Feb. 19-March 10 daily between noon and midnight local time.

It warned the ships and planes to avoid a circular area with a radius of 130 nautical miles with its center at latitude 34 degrees 49 minutes north and longitude 177 degrees 14 minutes west.

The area is several hundred miles northwest of Midway Island.

Pill linked to infection

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
CHICAGO — Women using the pill are more likely to develop urinary tract infections than women who do not take oral contraceptives, two birth-control experts report.

The study, involving 12,076 women living in a suburban California community, found that women taking the pill had an infection rate of 2.4 per cent.

This compared to 1.6 per cent infection rate for those who never used oral contraceptives.

Those women who at some time had used oral contraceptives showed an infection rate of 1.8 per cent. Results of the study were published in the Journal of the American Medical Assn.

Help for heart victims debated

(c) Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO — Two leading national bodies are urging that millions of laymen be trained in resuscitation techniques to save lives of heart attack victims, but a leading cardiologist has reservations about the idea.

The American Heart Assn. and the National Academy of Sciences recommend that training in basic life support be given first to policemen, firemen, lifeguard, rescue workers, high risk industry workers and families of heart disease patients.

Then the training would be expanded to include school children and other segments of the public.

"I believe it is a fine program for people who ordinarily are involved with rescue," said Dr. Olgesby Paul, vice president for health services at Northwestern University. "I am former president of the American Heart Assn. But I do have reservations about training people whose likelihood of applying rescue is small."

Nixon attends Alabama rites

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — "You're among friends here," Gov. George Wallace told President Nixon on his visit to Alabama Monday.

Wallace greeted the President at the Redstone Arsenal Airfield when Nixon arrived for an "Honor America Day" ceremony.

"We in Alabama have always honored the office of President of the United States," Wallace said. "We are flag wavers in Alabama, and we don't mind admitting it."

Patient lady loses car

PLEASANTON, Calif. (UPI) — Mrs. Olga Foriska, Pleasanton, lost her car Monday because she was too patient in a line waiting for gasoline at a service station.

Police said Mrs. Foriska's car was on train tracks and, when the warning signals began blinking, other motorists began honking at her.

She waited patiently, police said, but, when she realized a train was rolling down the track, she grabbed her dog from the car and ran from it.

A 62-car Western Pacific freight train rounded a curve and smashed into her car. It bounced off two other autos, but no one was hurt.

Balloonist soars eastward

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — An Army Reserve colonel from Virginia, intent on becoming the first person to make a manned transatlantic balloon flight, soared eastward today toward Europe.

Thomas L. Gatch took off Monday from Harrisburg International Airport at 7:30 p.m. EDT. An hour and 15 minutes later, Gatch reported that one of 10 helium-filled balloons supporting his gondola had burst. Gatch lost about 1,500 feet of altitude but siphoned off liquid ballast to compensate.

Gatch's trip had been delayed more than a day by strong ground winds.

Today, moving about 140 miles per hour in the jet stream winds over the Atlantic, but was a few thousand feet lower than anticipated.

Gatch, a bachelor, passed over Atlantic City at 9 p.m. and headed eastward. He said he was comfortable in the gondola where the temperature was 40 degrees.

He said he planned to rise to an altitude of 39,000 feet and complete his journey to France or Spain within two to five days, depending on the winds. He carried provisions for a 10-day trip.

The gondola, capable of flying upright in逆风, and the balloon system were designed by Gatch, a West Point graduate and a Korean War veteran.

Protection not offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew stripped of his Secret Service protection, will not be offered Maryland state police protection either.

Agnew lost his Secret Service guards while he was on a California golfing vacation Monday, four months after he resigned and pleaded no contest to a federal income tax evasion charge.

In Annapolis, Md., a spokesman for Gov. Marvin Mandel said Mandel does not plan to re-examine an offer of state police protection to Agnew, Maryland governor before he became president.

Balloon lifts off

THOMAS Gatch, 48, Alexandria, Va., lifted off from Harrisburg International Airport in a balloon cluster of 10 gas-filled bags in an attempt to cross the Atlantic Ocean. Gatch plans to ride the jet stream at about 35,000 feet. (UPI)

PRESIDENT Nixon helps Mrs. Cornelia Wallace move Gov. George Wallace's wheelchair into place on the speaking platform during Honor America Day festivities in Huntsville, Ala. (UPI)

A crowd of about 20,000 turned out in a downtown park to hear Nixon express relief to be out of Washington where "you hear more than anywhere in the world that America is sick."

"Here in the heart of Dixie we find that the heart of America's good, the character of the nation is strong and we're going to continue to be a great nation when we are 200 years old," Nixon said.

"The most difficult problems are the smaller we become," Nixon said, pointing to the crippled Wallace as an embodiment of this spirit.

The crowd greeting Nixon on the second visit of his presidency to Alabama was overwhelmingly friendly, although some signs demanding his impeachment were displayed.

Most of the signs proclaimed such messages as "God Love Nixon," "We love you, Dick" and "Bama loves you." Others said "John Agnew resign" and "We love USA—Impeach Nixon."

A University of Alabama

Huntsville student, Bud Speake, said he was getting about 20 signatures per hour on a petition calling for Nixon's impeachment and some anarchoism.

"Some of the people get a little angry and frown at me, but that's about all," Speake said.

A. C. Bengston of nearby Fayetteville, Tenn., said, "I'm for Nixon all the way. I don't believe in impeaching any president, especially President Nixon." Bengston, a middle-aged man, said.

Unsold cars 'stack up'

DETROIT (UPI) — The gasoline shortage scare has left U.S. car dealers with an 80-day supply of unsold cars—the highest in history and enough to last until early May—even if all auto plants were closed until late April.

What that means for the average buyer is the best deal in long time on standard-size cars, the kind automakers say are built for mom, dad, a couple of kids and their luggage.

Hearst awaits response to offer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The parents of Patricia Hearst waited nervously today for a response from her terrorist kidnappers to the family's $2 million "good will gesture."

"The next move is up to them," said publisher Randolph A. Hearst, after announcing Monday that the money would be available to buy free food for the needy. Although the giveaway was far short of the $400 million originally demanded by the Symbionese Liberation Army, it was the largest payment ever made in kidnapping in the United States.

The SLA, a small terrorist group which snatched the 19-year-old granddaughter of William Randolph Hearst from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4, had demanded the food distribution as a "gesture of good faith" which would allow the start of negotiations for Miss Hearst's release.

"I consider this a good will gesture, particularly since there is no guarantee that my daughter will be released," Hearst told newsmen at the Hilton Hotel after a five-hour secret meeting with representatives of the American Indian Movement—and other activist groups asked by the SLA to monitor the distribution.

He promised a fuller statement of the food plan today.

In its original demand a week ago, the SLA asked Hearst to provide $70 of free food for an estimated 4.7 million needy Californians, which the publisher said would cost about $400 million. Hearst said "impossible" demand, "but he would make a counter proposal before today's SLA deadline for the start of food distribution. The kidnappers said later they would accept a sincere effort" by Hearst.

The president-editor of the San Francisco Examiner said the money would be available today, but that it would take time to work out the details of the giveaway. He said the program would be administered by a charitable foundation approved by California's attorney general in order to avoid legal problems.

"You're making a mistake in believing that this is a ransom demand," Hearst told reporters. "What they're saying is, give us an expression of good will and show a desire to respond to our needs and our problems and the poor and hopefully they will respond in the manner they see fit."

Hearst said $500,000 of the money would come from his personal funds and the rest from the Hearst Foundation.

He said the charitable organization would determine who would receive the money; but he hoped it would consult with a "coalition" of six activist groups asked by the SLA to oversee the distribution plan.

As a further demonstration of good faith, Hearst said San Francisco attorney William K. Coblenz would act as the family's representative to assure a fair trial. Joseph Pappalardo and Russell Little, leaders of the SLA, were charged with the assassination of Oakland School Superintendent Marcus A. Foster last November.

Mitchell, Stans trial to begin

(c) Chicago Daily News

NEW YORK — The trial of two former Nixon cabinet members begins today in a Manhattan federal courtroom from which the public and most of the press are barred.

Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Sec. Maurice H. Stans, who headed President Richard M. Nixon's 1962 reelection campaign, face criminal charges of perjury and obstruction of justice in connection with an alleged illegal $200,000 campaign contribution.

Federal Judge Lee P. Gagliardi said 45 prospective jurors out of a pool of 1,400, veniremen will fill most of the ninth-floor courtroom as the former high-ranking presidential advisers appear.

Until a 12-person jury is selected, the public will be kept out. A pool of reporters out of more than 100 newsmen who applied for courtroom credentials have been allowed to sit in the last row of the spectator section.

Mitchell, 60, the Wall Street attorney who at one time Nixon's closest political confidante, and Stans, 65, a self-made midwest millionaire and accountant, will sit with a battery of high-powered attorneys who will defend them against charges that could bring maximum possible sentences of 45 years — five years on each of three counts of justice obstruction and six counts of perjury — plus fines ranging up to a total of $90,000 each.

Among key witnesses expected to be summoned by prosecutors include John W. Dean III, the former white house counsel who was Nixon's chief accuser during the Watergate hearings; two former SEC commissioners, William J. Cason and G. Board Cook, the president's two brothers and other White House and campaign aides.

Mitchell and Stans are accused of accepting a secret $200,000 cash campaign contribution from New Jersey wheeler-dealer-financier Robert Vesco, another defendant in the case who is avoiding prosecution by remaining in palatial exile in the Bahamas.

In exchange for the contribution, Mitchell and Stans allegedly agreed to intervene for Vesco with officials of the securities and exchange commission, which was then reviewing a civil complaint against Vesco, charging him with the "wholesale looting" of $24 million from four mutual funds.

Harry L. Sears, a New Jersey attorney and former Republican official, is the fourth defendant in the case, and is allegedly having been the "go-between" in the affair. He will be tried separately.

The Mitchell-Stans trial, which has been postponed three times since they were indicted last May 10, is the first case against cabinet members since the trials against interior Sec. Albert B. Fall and Atty. Gen. Harry M. Dougherty during the Harding administration.

Panel given tot class bills

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the House Education Committee looked at three public kindergarten proposals Monday and then sent them to a subcommittee for further study. Several members indicated they are reluctant to vote for kindergartens this year. They cited needs for teacher pay increases plus inflation of over 10 percent.

Reps. John Sessions, R-Diggs; Carroll Dean, R-Nampa; Gene Winchester, R-Kuna; Ernest Hale, R-Burley, and Percival Wesche, R-Nampa, also spoke out against funding kindergartens.

Dean said flatly he is "diametrically opposed to any kindergarten funding this session." There is absolutely no way to fund them without "diluting primary and secondary education-in-this state," Dean said.

Sessions agreed. "We have got to catch up with public school funding before we can take on new programs," Sessions said.

Wesche told fellow committee members he has received more correspondence on the needs of education than on any other legislation. But not one member asked for state-supported kindergartens, he said.

Although Hale supported kindergartens last year, he said he wants to wait at this session until he can be certain that teachers and present school programs are funded properly.

One of the bills considered by the committee Monday was identical to a measure proposed last year. It calls for a $2 million state appropriation, a district election on whether to have kindergartens and up-to-one-and-one-half mills of local property tax support.

Another, from Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, is similar to that measure but is for one year only and does not permit a local tax levy.

Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, offered the third proposal. It creates a primary grade and pre-school enrichment fund of $1 million. It provides for tax levies up to two mills at the local level and requires an election to start up kindergartens.

Winchester said Ravenscroft's bill is the only one with any chance at all.

"If you don't go that way I will drag my feet on kindergartens," Winchester said.

Rep. L. L. Otter, R-Caldwell called for a referendum on the question this fall.

Revamp effort wins House OK

BOISE (UPI) — Calling it the "first of the departmental reorganization bills," Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Post Falls, won approval Monday of a measure to put the liquor dispensary under the tax commission.

Debate on the bill was interrupted once for lunch and continued for about 15 minutes after the luncheon break. Then the bill went through the House, 39-29. Its next stop is the Senate.

Ingram said the bill puts this revenue-raising agency into the Department of Revenue, and Taxation where it belongs under government reorganization.

He said of the 18 states which have liquor monopolies only one other puts the liquor dispensary under the governor. That, he said, is West Virginia. Montana and Wisconsin have it under the tax commission and 13 others operate under a state board of liquor control.

Rep. Leo Butler, D-Orofino, disagreed with Ingram. He said the liquor industry is a sensitive area that needs strong supervision and he said it belongs under an elected official who must answer to the people and not an appointed commission.

This is not the only large revenue-raising source in state government, he added, pointing out the insurance department brings in $7.5 million a year.

"This is a business," Butler argued. "Administration of the liquor dispensary is not the same as collecting a tax."

"It is working well the way it is now," he said.

Rep. Vernon F. Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, said he favored putting the agency into the Department of Revenue and Taxation — which includes the tax commission — instead of the insurance department, which he opposes.

He said the tax commission is evenly divided with two Democrats and two Republicans. That would take it, he said, out of the partisan arena.

But Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, countered that it would be a burden to the tax commission to saddle it with the liquor dispensary. "The problems are far different than the ones they now have," Little said.

Relief delayed

BOISE (UPI) — House taxwriters put off until later in the week Monday consideration of two tax relief bills and a possible new bill in their same field.

Rep. Peggy Bustling, R-Bolton, successfully moved to hold for further study a bill which would make permanent the $15 per person grocery credit on income taxes. She said she was working on a bill to broaden the base of this program and it is not ready yet.

The tax writers committee voted to hold until Thursday for further study a bill by Rep. M. L. Clements, R-Nampa, which would restore deduction of federal income taxes from state personal income taxes.

Persons with views on both sides, including Clements, asked for more time to work up information on the subject.

Idaho tax panel funding endorsed

BOISE (UPI) — A state tax commissioner said Monday current funding for legal help for the commission has resulted in increased revenue for Idaho and a decreased delay to taxpayers contesting tax liability.

Jenkin Palmer told the Joint Legislative Finance Appropriation Committee for the past several years the commission has had a large backlog of pending appeals before the courts and before the board of tax appeals.

Although it has not been entirely eliminated, Palmer said, the current level of funding has enabled the department to control the backlog.

Confirmed

BOISE (UPI) — A former Idaho state representative Monday was confirmed to be the State Highway Board.

By a unanimous voice vote, the Senate approved the gubernatorial appointment of Roy Strochein of Aberdeen.

House leaders win

BOISE (UPI) — House leaders won another government reorganization battle Monday but it was a squeaker.

After the House approved 32-29 a Senate bill establishing a Department of Administrative Services, Rep. Paul Worthen, R-Boise, tried to get the body to reconsider its action.

Worthen argued — as he did earlier in debate — that the measure restores to the agency the power of inter-account billing. He said that was removed a year ago.

Through inter-account billings, Worthen said, an agency can spend more than the legislature appropriated to it — because it can pick up revenue from other departments.

House leaders have resisted efforts to put reorganization bills into committee of the whole for amendment, urging members instead to draft separate legislation. They are fearful that committee of the whole action could lead to wholesale changes that could rip through the entire fabric of government reorganization.

Worthen's motion failed on a 34-31 tie vote.

Army commander urges judge to restore drug control program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army's European commander says drug-related crime, illness and discipline are rampant in Europe and may undermine combat readiness unless the courts restore a drug control program they have declared unconstitutional.

The court in the case rejected the general's plea as "indefinite" less than an hour after he received it.

General Michael S. Davison, commander of the U.S. Army in Europe (USAREUR) filed a 5,000-word affidavit Friday as part of an appeal to U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell to reverse his constitutionality ruling against a tough USAREUR drug control program.

Civil rights lawyers won Gesell's judgment late last year that the program violated constitutional civil rights not only of drug-using soldiers but those who merely associated with them. Gesell ordered Davison to stop the strip-searches, sniffer-dog barracks searches and other surveillance tactics of the program.

Davison, in his affidavit, said such stops could cause "an immediate and dramatic increase of drug availability" in his command.

"This could produce an atmosphere of terror in the barracks, adversely affecting law-abiding soldiers," he said. "Such conditions existed previously."

Davison buttressed his argument with updated information indicating crime, hepatitis and other drug-related problems are still on the rise in his command although he says drug use itself has abated. His affidavit said:

"Drug-related criminal offenses in USAREUR doubled in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1973, to 5,000 and appeared to be doubling again this year with 5,233 offenses reported in the first six months."

"Drug-related hepatitis cases," jumped from 1,500 throughout USAREUR in 1972 to 4,000 in 1973 and will probably hit at least 4,500 this year. He said a 1972 total of 10,000 cases was reported.

"Some 1,337 soldiers had been dismissed from the Army in Europe since last May for drug abuse."

In spite of these weak indicators, Davison said, his building relations between the United States and West Germany, where most of his 190,000-man force is stationed, cement, drugs and violence." Before Gesell ordered it stopped.

He said command-wide urinalysis testing — done on a surprise basis and designed to sample every soldier at least once a year — showed usage of hard drugs had dropped to about 40 per cent of its previous peak rate during the last three months of 1973.

Inflation threatens good diet

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The ability of American families to feed themselves adequately is threatened by inflation and the energy crisis, according to a report of the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs.

The report, prepared by the committee's staff, said that rapidly rising food prices last year had a wide adverse effect on the diets of the average American.

"But the full extent that impact had, especially on the poor, elderly and low income, is obscured and may never be known," the report stated. "Government information gathering in this vital area is severely deficient."

The report also made the following observations:

— Food prices rose last year more rapidly than at any time since the Korean war. However, there was considerable variation in the rates of increase by community, region and within cities.

— Consumers reacted to higher food prices by cutting back sharply on food consumption and by changing their eating habits. Nevertheless, Americans still paid more of their total income for food.

— Rapid price increases have provoked diverse consumer reactions, including crime, civil protest, strikes,示威, shoplifting and cattle rustling. The poaching is significantly higher; there were food boycotts; there was an increase in human consumption of cat and dog food, and smuggling across the borders of Mexico and Canada was up.

— While no nationwide statistics are available, medical experts and local officials believe there is increased hunger in the country.

— There was a decrease in participation in the school lunch program and an increase in applications for food stamps.

The staff study recommended increased efforts to make food stamps available by increasing the capacity of local governments to deliver them. It proposed doubling the size of the program to feed the elderly, which now serves 200,000, and said that federal, state and local governments should insure that good quality food at reasonable prices be available to those living in low-income areas.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., the committee chairman, said the federal government should find out what had happened and develop policies to deal with food shortages and price increases.

Idaho woman says she didn't intend to threaten solon in letter on ERA

(Editors: If you carried earlier political echoes columns about Susan Hill's letter to Rep. Russell Bishop so that you carry the following column which gives her side of the story.)

By RICHARD CHARNOK

BOISE (UPI) — Contrary to earlier reports in this column, Susan Hill says she did not threaten or intend to threaten Rep. Russell Bishop, R-Collin, on the equal rights question.

Mrs. Hill wrote Bishop last week posing a number of questions about what she said she understood were his views on the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the U.S. Constitution. Bishop, feeling his viewers were disturbed by the questions, decided definitely to vote against a resolution rescinding Idaho ratification of the ERA. He indicated he felt intimidated by Mrs. Hill's letter.

In reporting Bishop's feelings and subsequent action on the floor, this reporter made it look as though I intended to discredit him. Mrs. Hill said:

"In no way did I intend to do that," she said.

"My purpose was I had been asked by other sources to do a story relative to the Equal Rights Amendment in Idaho," she said. "I felt that Bishop was an interesting character. I thought I would include him in this story."

"In no way, she said, did she intend to influence Bishop's vote on the ERA."

She wrote the letter on paper with the heading "Women For Women's Rights" because, she said, "we were asked to do this as an organization."

"We were involved in the ERA movement here in Idaho," she said.

She said she was writing for the "Utah Independent," a paper published in Salt Lake

City, and for the "Eastern Idaho Times," a paper headquartered in Idaho Falls.

"I wanted to find out his true feelings," she said, adding the questions she posed in the letter were based on conversations she said she had with some of his constituents.

"I wanted to check with him and find out whether or not the information I had was true prior to doing a story," Mrs. Hill said.

She said she did not write Bishop at the request of his constituents and in no way intended to pressure or to lobby him.

All I wanted to do was find out if these statements were true," she said. "All he had to do was write back and say this was not my position. My letter was seeking clarification of the man's position."

Mrs. Hill was disturbed that some who read the letter interpreted it as a threat. She was so concerned she said that she sought legal advice on it when she read this column because "I wanted to find out whether I had done something wrong." She said she was assured by counsel it was not a threatening letter as reported.

Solons probing prisons

(c) Washington Star News

WASHINGTON — Several members of the House have joined forces to seek broader subpoena powers for the general accounting office to compel State Department cooperation with an investigation of how United States funds are used in South Vietnam for support of political prisoners.

The refusal of the GAO to permit an investigation is already a violation of the budget and accounting act of 1972, Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., Congress is going to have to act to slap down the arrogance of the executive agencies.

Moss said the best thing Congress could do would be to authorize the broadest possible subpoena powers by comptroller general Elmer Stalls to carry out the will of Congress.

Thirty-five House members, led by Rep. Robert O. Tierman, D-R.I., asked GAO to investigate use of United States funds to suppress political dissent.

Earlier this month, Stalls informed Tierman that GAO had a policy of clearing requests for information and meetings with foreign governments through the state department.

Under Secretary of State William J. Porter replied that the department considered such a probe "inappropriate" and that it would be regarded as a serious infringement of sovereignty by Saigon.

Muslims on trial in deaths

(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Jury selection will begin this week in the trial of five self-styled Black Muslims charged with the slaying of seven members of a rival Muslim sect, the largest mass murder in this city's history.

Security for the trial in the second-floor courtroom of Superior Court Judge Leonard Branson will be unusually tight. About $40,000 has been spent to seal off the courtroom and the Judge's chambers from the public seating.

On Jan. 19, 1973, a number of men armed with pistols and sawed-off shotguns forced their way into the home of Hamans Abdul Khanzali, the leader of the local Hanafi community in the well-to-do "Gold Coast" section of the District of Columbia.

They killed seven members of the Hanafi, whose ages ranged from 20 years to 9 days, by shooting four of them and drowning three. Two Hanafi women, Bibi and Almina Khanzali, the second wife and daughter-in-law of Khanzali respectively, survived severe gunshot wounds in the head. Almina Khanzali is expected to testify at the trial.

The five defendants, William Christian, John W. Clark, John Griffin, Theodore Moody and Jerome Sinclair, were indicted by a grand jury last August. Each was named in 23 counts, including conspiracy, first-degree murder and armed robbery.

The men, whose ages range from the early twenties to the early thirties, are from Philadelphia. The Philadelphia mosque of the Black Muslims had denied any connection with the men.

Cook's Dilemma

Housewives in Puno, Peru, cook three-minute eggs for six minutes because of the city's altitude of 12,506 feet. The oxygen-thin air in the city beside Lake Titicaca causes mobile engines of motor vehicles to lose 20 per cent of their rated horsepower.

Tania taught to 'learn'

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A 14-year-old girl who was born deaf and was considered retarded picked up two years of education in just three months when she was taught how to communicate.

Tania was born with a moderate case of cerebral palsy and deafness. A doctor labelled her retarded and advised her parents to put her in an institution and forget about her.

Ellen Pillard, clinic administrator at the National Health Institute, said staff members became convinced she was not retarded and began searching for a foster home for her.

"Then Jim Pollard, a technician just out of college, took a class in sign language and began to teach Tania," Mrs. Pillard said.

A woman from Newcastle, Calif., herself deaf, gave Tania (not her real name) a home where people could communicate with her.

She made such fast progress in learning that all doubts about her being retarded were ended. The Nevada Board of Education certified her as qualified to attend a school for the deaf—removing the label of retardation.

This week, Tania leaves for a school for the deaf in Utah.

"The exciting thing to us is she will be given a chance. She may develop into a normal, happy adult," Mrs. Pillard said.

The newspaper said he has not turned up in the West and it is believed he has made his way to Czechoslovakia.

Eruption subsides

CATANIA, Sicily (UPI) — Mount Etna has ended its latest eruption but a series of mild earthquakes has begun striking Europe's tallest volcano, a team of volcanologists said today.

The scientists said the flow of lava and explosions that lit brimstone and ashes 500 feet into the air have stopped. The last two fingers of lava formed Saturday morning flowed 1,200 feet, they said.

The new eruption, on the Red Mountain side of the 10,902-foot volcano, did not endanger any villages on the mountain side, the scientists said.

Utah woman heads CowBelles

SALT LAKE CITY, Colo. (UPI) — Mrs. Emo (Irene) Hoyt, Kamas, Utah, has been named president of the American National CowBelles, a 12,000 member women's auxiliary organization of the American National Cattlemen.

Mrs. Hoyt, associated with the cattle industry the past 15 years, is also a teacher of speech, English and French in the Wasatch High School in Heber City, Utah. She was elected during the national convention in San Diego last month.

(c) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — As an unappreciated national phenomenon, a growing number of Americans are driving up to 50 miles from big cities and paying cash on-the-spot to see doctors in small towns for their basic medical care, according to results of a study being reported Monday.

in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Although many people come from rural areas to see doctors in metropolitan centers, some people keep on seeing a doctor in the smaller communities where they once lived, and some big-city specialists periodically hold office hours in rural areas, the study found that a sizable group of urban Americans who have never lived outside a big city choose doctors for their day needs in small rural towns.

The study covered 119 general and family practitioners, internists, surgeons and pediatricians in 28 Georgia towns that were separated by an average of 25 miles of open farmland from the nearest city. The doctors who did the study at the Medical College of Georgia in Augusta said the same trend affected the medical practice in Eastern New York, Central-Texas, Eastern Nebraska and elsewhere.

The doctors contended that the findings challenge the statistic of the number of physicians per population per geographic area that has become the customary basis for judging the adequacy of medical services. Needed as a re-examination of the concept that unless every county has a doctor, its residents receive inferior medical care, the doctors said.

Stowaway gets ticket home

CASTRO VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Jerry Verzil mailed a passport and an airline ticket to his stowaway son in England on Sunday and remarked, "That'll be an awful lot of allowances at $2 a week."

"That ticket cost $300."

His son, Steve, 15, vanished with only $4 in his pocket Wednesday night after some unpleasantness at school and popped up Thursday night at his aunt and uncle's home in Warrington, England.

He had boarded a plane at San Francisco International Airport, acting as if he had a ticket, slipped out of London's Heathrow Airport by dodging through swinging doors and hitchhiked the rest of the way.

The first word his family received was a cable from England: "Steve is fine. Call Kirby."

"We couldn't believe it," the father said. "Imagine thinking your son is somewhere around the corner and then finding out he is 7,000 miles away..."

Spending up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Overseas visitors are spending more than ever in the United States.

A report from Diners Club' International division indicated the visiting tourists were expected to spend $3.7 billion in 1973 compared with $2.2 billion in 1972.

At least 1.2 million overseas tourists arrived in the United States during the first six months of 1973.

explanation, the son replied: "I just wanted to come back. That's all." The family had visited England two years ago.

Wanderlust started for the insurance man's son at a school basketball game Wednesday. Coaches had called the father saying Steve had been giving them trouble and asked that he be taken home.

But by the time the father arrived the son had vanished, leaving behind him this note to his principal: "Nobody understands; I'll be back in a couple weeks."

DEAR ABBY: I am 16, and my problem is my over-sexed brother in law. I babysit for their 2-year-old child. My sister would wring his neck if she knew how fresh he feels with me and every other female who comes within 2 feet of him. [He's even propositioned my mother—and she's 60!]

My sister and this lecher are building a new home now and he tells everybody that he and my sister and their little daughter bathe together! My sis is seven months pregnant now, and this over-sexed dude says he is looking for a king-sized bathtub so they can ALL bathe together after the new baby comes. He says there is nothing wrong with nudity or sex, and anyone who says there is is evil-minded.

Tell me, Abby, is he nuts, or am I evil-minded?

SISSE

Over-sexed
brother-in-law

DEAR SISSE: There is nothing wrong with nudity or sex under the proper circumstances, but any man who's propositioned his mother in law IS nuts.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your item concerning the women who are interested in obtaining false fannies: I would like to make a contribution. BABE IN OMAHA

DEAR BABE: After me!

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow woman planning a tour with a friend. I'll be sharing a room with her which will create a problem because I snore. I know I snore loudly because those who have heard me say it is most annoying.

I'm told I sleep with my mouth open, so that must be the reason. My friend doesn't know about my snoring, and I hesitate to tell her before attempting to remedy it. Any suggestions?

DEAR PROBLEM: First see a nose and throat doctor. Often a minor surgical correction will solve the snoring problem. Some have solved the open-mouth problem by applying adhesive tape over the mouth, or using a chin strap. If all else fails, buy your roommate some ear plugs.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEEDS A NEW SECRETARY": I agree. A new broom sweeps clean. But next time try to get one that doesn't come with an old witch attached to it.

ERA opinion given

BOISE (UPI) — The president of the Idaho League of Women Voters is disappointed that the debate over ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment has surfaced again this year in the Legislature.

President Marjorie Slotten, Twin Falls, said at a state board meeting she was "disappointed that a minority of house members" were again raising the question of state ratification.

"The issue has been totally debated," Mrs. Slotten said.

Suit filed

TWIN FALLS — A Buhl angus breeding and farming firm has filed suit in Fifth District Court against Atlantic Richfield Co. and the oil company's local agent, claiming damages from an alleged fuel mix up.

Glen Dale Farms, Inc., filed the suit Feb. 14. Attorneys for the farming concern claim that Atlantic Richfield's Twin Falls agent, Albert W. McMahen, who is named as a co-defendant in the suit, mistakenly put gasoline in the farm diesel tanks last March, resulting in about $1,500 damages to diesel tractors owned by the farming concern.

Glen Dale seeks the $1,500 for tractor damage, plus attorneys fees of $500, plus court costs.

League cited

BOISE (UPI) — The Blackfoot Chapter of the League of Women Voters now has full state recognition.

The league's state board agreed at a weekend meeting to extend full recognition to the provisional group.

Minico votes pay raise

RUPERT — Minidoka school trustees Monday voted to raise wages for school bus drivers to $2.35-$2.85 per hour.

The trustees approved a proposal by Supt. Darrell Hatfield to pay drivers on a merit basis rather than strictly tenure.

Public meet set

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation will conduct a series of public information meetings in Idaho next week to explain study findings on the proposal to include the Oregon Trail in the National Trail System.

The Oregon Trail stretches across 2,000 miles from Independence, Mo., to Oregon's Willamette Valley. More than 25,000 pioneers migrated along its route during the development of the frontier.

FPI opposes legislation

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the Food Producers of Idaho Inc. (FPI) have agreed they don't want agriculture covered under the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act.

Members of the group met in Boise Monday and decided they would oppose legislation to that effect pending in Congress. President Jack Pierce, Malta, said the NLRA was created with industry in mind and especially exempted agriculture because the goods produced are so perishable.

"Coverage under this law would only stifle the production of food and would not be in the best interests of the people of the U.S." Pierce said.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, who spoke to the members at a luncheon, repeated his earlier request for state control of the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

Contract awarded

BOISE (UPI) — A subsidiary firm of the Morrison-Knudsen Co. will be doing $20 million worth of work on a new coal mining development site in Wyoming.

Morrison-Knudsen announced the firm, H.K. Ferguson Co., based in Cleveland, would receive the contract from the Atlantic Richfield Co. The contract will cover complete engineering and construction of surface facilities to serve the new Arco surface coal mining development in Wyoming.

The site of the construction will be at Arco's Black Thunder Mine, located in Campbell County, about 50 miles south of Gillette.

Youth injured

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — An 18-year-old was reported in good condition in Bonneville County Hospital today after suffering first and second degree burns in a flash fire.

Jody Draney, Pocatello, was delivering propane gas bottles to a storage shed owned by the J.R. Simplot Co. Monday when the fire broke out.

A company spokesman said the fire apparently began when Draney went to bleed some of the bottles to check their supply and some of the gas drifted into the proximity of a space heater and flashed.

The spokesman said the fire was also fed by a supply of fiberglass fittings and pipes stored in the building.

COG units get funding cuts rather than merger

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Sidestepping a controversy, the state was handed down big funding cuts to Magic Valley's two councils of government (COG) rather than force their merger.

The South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Association (SIRPDA) will lose 2.5 percent of its current federal aid and the Wood River Resource Area Council of Governments (WRRAOCG) will receive a 34 percent cut, according to Robert Wise, acting director of the State Planning and Community Affairs Agency.

"We feel they can live on those funds," Wise said today.

The COGs will drop SIRPDA funding from $20,000 to $15,500 and WRRAOCG from $16,000 to $10,500.

The planning agency administers federal funding of all state COGs.

State planners have urged a merger of the two

COGs for several months, pointing out the cost-cutting efficiency of joint funding and programming.

The Magic Valley is the only state planning region with more than one COG. Even the big funding cuts, SIRPDA and WRRAOCG jointly receive more aid than any of the other five planning regions.

Wise admitted today that other COGs have complained about the funding imbalance in Magic Valley.

Under the reduced federal aid, WRRAOCG will receive 57 cents per capita, more than twice as much as any other planning region, according to Wise. SIRPDA will get 18 cents per capita, about average.

Based on land area, SIRPDA, will get $2.65 per acre (about 10 percent in the state) compared to WRRAOCG's $1.60 per square mile (about average), Wise said.

"Although the state has the power (to force a merger), we're not going to," Wise said today.

Most state COG's will get the same or more federal funding, according to Wise. He said a current $19,000 allocation to a planning council in region six (Idaho Falls) will not be renewed.

The major portion of that money will go toward maintenance of current funding levels for COGs (excepting SIRPDA and WRRAOCG).

Paul Kelly, executive director of SIRPDA, today said, "I'd rather see a merger — but I'm not necessarily dissatisfied with the funding split."

SIRPDA's board of directors will discuss a possibility of merging their regular meeting Wednesday in Rupert, according to Kelly.

"Garrett Kidd (SIRPDA chairman) has some recommendations which support a merger," Kelly said.

Minico unit opposes bill

RUPERT — The Minidoka Wildlife Federation voted at a meeting Monday night in Rupert to oppose legislation granting senior citizens free hunting and fishing licenses after one-year residence in Idaho.

Federation president, William Whittom, said this would encourage more out of state residents to hunt in Idaho without increasing fish and game revenues. Retired persons are now given free licenses after 10 years of residence.

Donald Zuck, district four president of the federation, told the group the Idaho Wildlife Federation supports an increase in fishing and hunting fees.

He said the present proposal in the state legislature to increase the fees is not getting out of committee and pressure from citizens is needed.

The federation also voted to oppose Minidoka's own Sen. John Peavay's proposed legislation to limit big game seasons to 15 days.

Whittom, who was defeated for the Senate by Peavay, said such a law would be too restrictive and some areas now have seasons of less than 15 days. He said it feels "politicians should keep their noses out of game management."

$50,000 suit filed in TF

TWIN FALLS — A $50,000 personal injury suit has been filed in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls.

Raymond Brewer and Ida Brewer brought the suit against Lincoln Kindree Kestner on Feb. 14.

In the suit the Brewer couple claims that Mrs. Brewer was walking north along the east side of Washington Street on Sept. 14, 1973, when she was struck by a pickup truck driven by Kestner, who was at the intersection of Washington and Heyburn Ave.

According to the suit, Kestner was driving his pickup west on Heyburn when he negligently struck Mrs. Brewer.

The Brewers seek $200 in current medical expenses, $3,000 for future medical expenses, and $50,000 in general damages. Attorneys for the couple have also requested that the court allow them to amend the complaint at a later date when more information on the extent of Mrs. Brewer's injuries is available.

Teams exchanged

TWIN FALLS — The Wood River High School basketball team sat on the bench during a fight which broke out during a basketball game Friday. Built's players were in the dressing room. A Story Monday incorrectly exchanged the team's positions. The Times-News regrets the error.

Classes slated

Two pre-surgical assessment classes are scheduled tonight and Wednesday evening in two Magic Valley hospitals, sponsored by Idaho Nurses Association in cooperation with the Southeastern Idaho Center for Health Resources, Inc.

Tonight's session is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Carlsbad Memorial Hospital, Burley, and Wednesday at the same time at St. Benedict's Hospital, Jerome, with a business meeting at 7 p.m. Pat Ramsey, RN, and Frank Johnson, CRNA, both of St. Benedict's Hospital, will be the faculty. All nurses are invited.

Trees removed

SPRING CLEAN-UP on this farm southwest of Pocatello has removed 11 giant maple trees which had become diseased after being topped; the tree roots were lifted from the ground, with their roots, and hauled away. The diseased trees are a hazard with falling limbs and occasionally the toppling of an entire tree.

Winners from TF

TWIN FALLS — All three Idaho winners in the National Corn Growers Association irrigated corn yield contest are from Twin Falls county.

First place winner is Harold Menier, manager of Glen Dale Farms Inc., near Buhl. The state winning yield was 207.1 bushels per acre on the farm's corn growing acres.

Second place winner was Jim Wheeler, Castleford, with an average yield of 185.5 bushels per acre. Gale W. Conner, also of Castleford, placed third with a 173.9 bushels per acre yield.

More than 1,388 entries from 43 states participated in the national contest. All entries had to be from fields of 25 acres or more. The 1973 national crop contest had 11 entries with yields over 200 bushels per acre and seven entries of more than 200 bushels from the non-irrigated division.

MVMH bond ballot eyed

Date Hall of CTA Architects said his firm was ready to continue with its feasibility planning. The firm has already set the week of March 4 aside for meetings with hospital administration and department heads, if the board wants to continue conferences, Hall said.

He praised the bond issue as "the best publicized bond election in the 22 I've seen."

"In other business, the board approved a new computerized system of medical record keeping. Called MIR-1, the system is tied in with the California Health Data organization.

Statistics on each patient are filed by discharge, then patient statistics in batches of 10 are sent to California. The firm returns a computer report which lists each discharge by department, service, payment and in other categories.

According to Mary Lou England, director of medical records, all information is retained in the firm's data bank...so further research is possible.

The cost is 30 cents to 40 cents per discharge, or about $2,800 to $3,000 per year, Rosenbaum said.

said. All such data was previously filed by hand. The new system will make it possible to cut back by one employee, Director England said.

The computerized system makes additional information available for audits and substantiates the number of patient days paid for the medicaid, which adds the hospital to its dealings with the medicare organization and the Cost of Living council.

The monthly financial report was presented. January was the busiest month on record, according to Rosenbaum, in terms of occupancy and services performed.

Decker told the board that he was following up on the problem with the air conditioning. Since installation several years ago, the system has never worked properly, designed by Engineering Inc., New Haven, Conn., which equipment from Dunham-Bush, of Connecticut, the air mechanical contractors, Home Plumbing.

According to Decker, Dunham-Bush will provide replacement equipment, and Home Plumbing will do the mechanical work.

Editor writes paper from Gooding jail

Brown also said there was "absolutely no connection" between the editorial and the arrest. Whenever an individual is stopped and asked for identification an NCIC is automatically run to find him he said.

In an interview from his jail cell Monday, Vanhorn said he had admitted robbing in the armed robbery because "I had a wife and no money." He was paroled after serving seven years of the sentence, he said, and he reported to his probation officer every month for six years.

He stopped reporting to his probation officer about two or three years ago because he was either "coerced" into leaving or was fired from about 10 newspapers when the papers found he had a record, he said.

When contacted Monday, however, the editors of several newspapers Vanhorn had worked for during the past eight years said they had been unaware of his felony record. Those who had been aware of the record said it had not affected his status at the paper.

Reports from the editors varied concerning Vanhorn's professional ability. Some said they had "no complaints" about his work, while others expressed reservations.

Gale Brammer, managing editor of the Gooding County Leader, said Tuesday that "Vanhorn's professional ability and integrity is not being questioned." The incident, he said, is "unfortunate. We did not know about it (the felony warrant)."

"I do believe there are reasons he shouldn't be sent back to Oregon," Brammer said.

He said he edited the prison paper, and was awarded the Lindner Foundation Award for his work, which gave him a full scholarship to the college of his choice upon his release. With the scholarship, he attended Everett Junior College in Everett, Wash., before entering on a journalism career.

According to Vanhorn, he received several awards for his work while he was employed at various newspapers during the last eight years.

Welfare fathers on job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "bulk of evidence" shows poor fathers generally continue to work when they receive income supplements, according to Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich.

Mrs. Griffiths, chairman of the joint economic subcommittee on fiscal affairs, released several studies of income supplement programs Sunday and said the papers showed the American "work ethic" would not be harmed by a carefully designed income supplement program that rewards work.

"A key obstacle to extending cash supplements to poor families headed by able-bodied fathers is the fear that many will leave their jobs," she said. "The bulk of the evidence shows that such fears are unfounded."

The studies were released in a subcommittee report.

"The studies are in substantial agreement: a broad income supplement plan would add to the incomes of poor fathers without causing such men to leave work," Mrs. Griffiths said.

Some results of the studies were mixed, but Mrs. Griffiths said it was determined that the studies predicting large work reductions were based on less reliable methods than the other studies.

Nixon ouster foreseen

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — An American Civil Liberties Union official predicted Sunday that House of Representatives will vote to impeach President Nixon.

The executive director of the Washington State ACLU, Lauren Selden, said the House would "have no choice but to act, or the people will elect a new set of representatives to do the people's business."

Selden said a Roper poll commissioned by the ACLU showed that 44 per cent of the public favors impeachment and 45 per cent opposes it.

But he said the poll showed that of those opposed to impeachment, nearly half—or 24 per cent of the total interviewed—do so "not because they believe Mr. Nixon but because they believe impeachment is too destructive to the country."

Selden said the poll also found that 37 per cent of the public equates impeachment with "removal from office" while it actually means bringing charges against a president, who is then tried by the Senate.

Viets release POWs

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam turned over more than 1,000 Viet Cong civilian prisoners in the first week of the final phase of POW releases, the Saigon command said today.

Spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said government helicopters today carried 104 Communists to the Viet Cong de facto capital at Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon.

The spokesman said one of the ex-prisoners agreed to remain in government territory.

Since the releases began last week, South Vietnam has freed 1,088 Viet Cong.

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The United States and India today signed an accord that wiped out India's $3.2 billion debt to the United States.

The debt, a major irritant to Indo-U.S. relations, was a product of U.S. economic assistance to India over the past two decades.

The money, which has existed only on the account books of the Indian and American governments, amounts to about 20 per cent of all India's monetary currency.

"Thank you very much," said Secretary M.G. Kaul of the Indian Finance Ministry with a smile as he accepted a symbolic check for 16,640 million rupees ($2.2 billion) from U.S. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

Under the agreement India will use the rupees for its own development during this country's fifth five-year plan which begins April 1.

The other $1 billion worth of rupees will be retained by the United States in an interest-free account and used to finance future government expenditures in India.

The complex pact, worked out after six months of negotiations, was initialed last Dec. 13 and then taken before the U.S. Congress by Moynihan in January.

The approval of Congress was not necessary for the implementation of the accord.

Praising the agreement as a "milestone in Indo-American economic relations", Kaul thanked Moynihan for his efforts.

"This is due to you personally," Kaul told Moynihan. "You did not spare yourself to bring it about."

Of the rupees granted outright to India, $1.3 billion worth will be spent on agriculture and the remainder on family planning, housing, education, health, electric power and rural electrification.

Wendell, GF favored in A-3 tournament

SHOSHONE — Two veteran winners of post-season tournaments, the Wendell Trojans and Glens Ferry Pilots, are favored to meet in the finals of the A-3 district tournament opening In Shoshone Wednesday.

When they do it is pretty well agreed it will be "pick 'em" time.

The two favorites will be on the sidelines, though, when the thing begins at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday with Shoshone going against Kimberly. Declo takes on Valley in the nightcap. The "winners" of those two games will go against Wendell and Glens Ferry at the same times Thursday night.

Wendell plays the longest running streak into the day, coming off seven wins having reeled off 12 straight. They split with the Pilots, Glens Ferry taking the early January meeting 56-43 and Wendell coming up with a 43-42 decision a month later.

The relatively unknown quantity, at least from an A-3 standpoint, will be Declo. The Hornets finished 64-in-the-Magic Valley Conference, all of the opponents being A-4, at tournament time. The Hornets split with Valley. But the tradition of Declo has been one booming night at least in the tournament. The Hornets have subsided thereafter, but they've just about always managed to make other teams sit up and take notice.

There is a wide disparity in season records that means if Glens Ferry wins, it will make the final four. If it does not, it has come with its checkups upset. The exception to that could be Kimberly which was 10-10 and has the height and has shown the offensive firepower at times to beat just about anyone within its classification.

With that 12-game win streak, Wendell has the best overall mark at 14-5. The Trojan main cogs are Kent Sisson and Matt Burr with John Gough and Tracy Scott filling in with good point nights.

Glens Ferry, reliant on a tough defense and the basic scoring of Jay Black and Steve Shirum, posted a 13-2 mark but lost four of its last six games.

Kimberly was exactly even at 10-10 overall and 4-4 for the year. Consistent scoring from the guard line and the off and on shooting of Hudson have been the main problems in getting that mark above .500. However, with Holly Houburg and Rod Malone, the Bulldogs

Castleford, Oakley look good in A-4 meet; Devils darkhorse

MURTAUGH — The Murtaugh Red Devils, just 10-10 on the season, will be the catalyst in the sixth district A-4 basketball tournament which is expected to end Castleford from the finals.

The Red Devils left this district as the second place team last spring and then came on to win the state title, topping Oakley for the first time in five tries in the biggest one. This year the Devils' season has been very lackluster, but blazed momentarily when Murtaugh became the only team to beat Castleford all season. These two are in the same bracket and the rubber-match could come Thursday night.

Murtaugh also will have the advantage of playing on the home court. But the Devils' history of home-court advantage in past tournaments hasn't been overpowering by any means.

Murtaugh will go against

Hansen at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday with Raft River taking on Hagerman in the nightcap. Thursday night Murtaugh wins with Castleford taking on the winner of the Raft River-Hagerman game. Jaycee portion of the tournament kicks off both nights at 5:30 p.m.

The pairings for the tournament are based on conference standing. Those would indicate Castleford and Oakley are clear cut choices to gain the finals. While Castleford was 11-1 and hung the only two losses on Oakley, Murtaugh was well back in third at 7-6 while Raft River 5-7. Hansen and Hagerman were locked at 2-10.

Of them all Castleford has been the most consistent simply because the Wolves have worked hard on both ends of the court and particularly so on defense. The Wolves' scoring triumvirate is Dave Kuhn, Wiggins and Eastday. Al Schultz and Randy McCoy get points but their forte is rebounding and defense.

Onky's Don Pickett is the one individual who could come closest to dominating one of these games. At 6-3 Pickett looks up to no one and he's a great leaper. Coach Neal Wyatt uses him outside often as often as inside, which indicates his confidence in Pickett's shooting and ball handling. Oakley's guards, Steve Sharp particularly, can be relied upon to defend. Murtaugh's big punch is found inside in Rob Wright and outside in Scott Perkins. Those two have to get something around 30 points for the Devils to contend. Of late Wade Quesnel has picked up the scoring tempo and the nights he's going, Murtaugh becomes commensurately stronger.

Hansen's problem is that everyone knows Byron Stanger has to score if the Huskies are going to win. At 6-2 Stanger stays outside where he can adjust all kinds of opponents. So far the Huskies haven't developed any outside pressure to alleviate. Byron's claustrophobia. Mark Stanger was the one rated most likely, but he has been spotty.

Hagerman Coach Joe James went back to the drawing board midway through the season and consequently, with two sophomores usually in the starting lineup, will be the youngest team. Still those two sophomores, Tate and Arruda, added a scoring punch before their appearance.

The other coaches are saying a darkhorse of the whole thing could be Raft River. The Trojans finished in the middle of the conference standings. They are shorter than the rest but have good leapers and most of the opposition coaches feel if the Trojans can come up with some outside punch they will be a definite factor in the playoffs.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES Unexpected developments could occur today. It would be wise to adopt a conservative attitude and try not to force any issues. Make sure you have everything in perspective condition. Use special care with electricity.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't expect friends to be concerned about your affairs; since they are too busy with their own right now. Work at favorite hobby.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It is wise to keep at regular routines today since it's not a good day for seeking success in the outside world. Relax tonight.

GEINI (May 21 to June 21) Not a good day to engage in new activities. Don't be surprised. Showing more devotion to kin at this time can bring fine results. Be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you meet your obligations instead of running away from them. Do your utmost to improve relationship with loved one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Although tempted to make changes, it is best to carry through with arrangements you have already made with others. Show you have poise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be sure you study all facets of a new plan you have in mind before putting it in operation. You've been under a strain lately, so relax.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want to have a good time, but the aspects are better for working now. Evening is fine for investing in some personal items.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to maintain poise at home if you want to avoid an argument. Sidestep any controversial subjects. Show devotion to mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Being careful in motion could stave off an accident that would be costly now. Avoid creating problems by being overly hasty.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't think you can buy your way into or out of anything now or you could get into trouble. Caution must be exercised today.

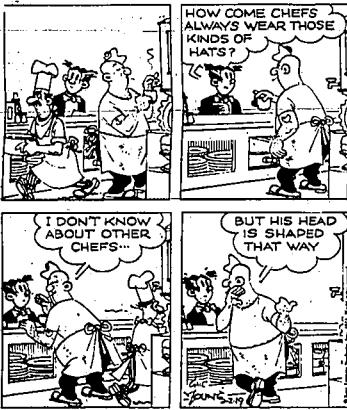

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care you don't lose your temper with anyone today or you could regret it later. Take things in stride and let go.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have much work ahead so schedule your activities wisely and accomplish a great deal. Later you can be of assistance to others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be a natural-born problem solver. Courses in psychology and allied subjects will pave the way for a successful life, which is destined to be long and interesting. Give ethical training early in life. Sports are a must here.

Good-looking kids generally get pretty good grades. Bed-looks like kids generally get pretty bad grades. But the best grades of all generally go to those mediocre-looking kids who wear glasses. No, that's not my notion. It's what the scholastic survey takes say they found out recently.

The sailor of old let out lines in lengths equal to the distance between his hands outstretched to full arm's length on either side of his body. That was a normal linear measurement now known as the fathom. And it varied considerably with the sizes of the sailors. Or so says our language man.

When completely grown up, a man is 1.93 times heavier than he was at birth. Or should be, at any rate. A woman, though, is only 1.73 times heavier than she was at birth. Normally.

Am asked who dreamt up the term "punch drunk" to describe that ailment among some professional boxers. One Dr. H. S. Martland was the fellow. In 1928. Was no such phrase in the medical books before then?

CATNAPPERS

The three most famous catnappers in world history were Thomas Edison, Winston Churchill and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Edison apparently used his typewriter. Churchill dropped off from time to time in his desk chair. And Mrs. Roosevelt napped practically everywhere. In fact, once after Norman Thomas delivered to a large Madison-Square-Garden audience an introduction of Mrs. Roosevelt as the featured speaker, historians had to shake her awake on stage so she could take the podium.

MAJOR HOOPLES

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices rallied across a broad front on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday, amid optimism the Arab oil embargo might end.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up 13.06 of 833.38 a few minutes before 11 a.m., after climbing about 16 points in the opening hour. Similar hopes for an end to the oil stoppage helped the Dow gain 10.40 last Friday.

Saudi Arabian foreign ministers, after meeting with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger last weekend, were reported ready to give President Nixon "good news" concerning the dismantlement of Israeli military troops at a meeting set for Tuesday morning. Wall Street was hopeful a break in the Middle East tension could result in an easing or lifting of the oil embargo against the United States.

Advances broadly led declines, 1,031 to 272, among the 1,609 issues traded.

Nominal volume totaled about 8,000,000 shares, against 17,000,000 shares changing hands the same time Friday.

Oil, gas, railroads and electric stocks reacted upward to the news. Murphy Oil rose 12 $\frac{1}{2}$, Halliburton 3 $\frac{1}{2}$, Schlumberger 2 $\frac{1}{2}$, Nomas 2 $\frac{1}{2}$, Atlantic Richfield 1 $\frac{1}{2}$, and Phillips Petroleum 1 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Among stocks constituting the Dow industrials, DuPont added 2 $\frac{1}{2}$, Union Carbide a point, Allied Chemical 1 $\frac{1}{2}$, Eastman Kodak 3 $\frac{1}{2}$, Exxon 1 $\frac{1}{2}$, and Sears 1 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Redman Industries led the advances up 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 on 109,400 shares. Consolidated Utilities declined 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 25 on 21,100 shares. American Telephone & Telegraph Co. followed, gaining 4 to 52 on 73,400 shares.

Stocks also rose sharply on the American Exchange.

CSI judo team wins trophies

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls College Southern Idaho Judo team returned Monday from the 19th annual Ore-Ida Judo tournament with a Jion's share of the trophies.

Wesley Dobbs, coach, said the total delegation of 15 Judo artists took trophies in nearly all divisions of the event.

In the 11- to 12-year-old-light-weight class, Chan Harriman placed first in the large and competitive field.

In the 13 to 14 year old light-weight division, Greg Dobbs took a fourth place. Wiley Dobbs' won a second place trophy in the 15 and 16 year old-light weight division.

Bill Bentkusa won the 15 to 16 year old-middle weight division. Another first place winner was Brad Archibald, Wendell, who competed in the light weight senior division. This is his fourth trophy from four tournaments, Dobbs said.

Bill Holloway took a third place trophy in the 15 and 16 year old-heavyweight division and Larry Knight placed third in the 15 and 16 year old-heavyweight junior division.

Brian Matsukawa placed fourth in the 15 to 16 year old-heavyweight division.

Dobbs said there will be a Twin Falls tournament March 15 in the CSI gym with teams from Salt Lake City, Ontario, Oregon, Spokane and other towns competing.

Charge dropped on helicopter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal charges against Pfc. Robert K. Preston, who crash-landed a stolen helicopter on the White House lawn, have been dropped, but he still faces possible criminal prosecution on court-martial charges.

Preston underwent psychiatric evaluation at Walter Reed Army Medical Center Monday.

"Preston had the stunt because he flunked flight school," he replied. "I could be,"

Earlier, accompanied by a male nurse, Preston, 20, of Panama City, Fla., left Walter Reed's psychiatric center in suburban Forest Glen, Md., for a brief arrangement in District of Columbia Superior Court.

But during a closed hearing only a month ago, U.S. Attorney Earl J. Silbert dropped a federal charge against Preston of unlawful entry into restricted air space around the White House.

Preston was then turned over to military custody at Walter Reed for possible prosecution on court-martial charges.

Nuclear arms race talks continue

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States and Soviet Union went back to the negotiating table today in a drive to work out a permanent agreement by the end of the year on limiting the nuclear arms race.

U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Soviet delegate Vladimir S. Semenov agreed to resume their discussions today, following a three-month lull in the Strategic Arms Limitation (SALT) talks.

"We will do the best we can," Johnson said before the start of the 51st meeting in the current round of SALT talks. His previous negotiating session with Semenov was last Nov. 18.

President Nixon and Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev agreed at their

He stole an unarmed UH-1B "Huey" helicopter from Ft. Meade, Md., where he is stationed as a helicopter mechanic, shortly after midnight Saturday. After a bizarre, one-hour flight, which included police cars and ended in chasing Maryland state police cop, Preston crash-landed his craft on the White House South Lawn, barely 100 yards from the Executive Mansion, in a ball of shotgun fire from White House police at about 2 a.m. Sunday.

As Preston left court Monday morning, reporters asked if he had pulled the stunt on a bet. "Negative," he replied. Asked if he had done so because he washed out of Army flight school at Ft. Wolters, Tex., last year, he said: "Could be."

An Army spokesman at Ft. Meade said the outcome of the psychiatric tests at Walter Reed would determine whether Preston would face court-martial charges or other disciplinary action.

general cargo vessel. The cargo ship and a South Korean fuel tanker were the only two ships to arrive here Monday night along with two light tugboats, that were towing the ammunition barges.

The captain of the fuel-tanker said the two other ammunition barges returned to South Vietnam when the convoy came under fire. The other tanker was scheduled to arrive Phnom Penh later today, authorities said.

Communist gunners destroyed two ammunition barges, killed one soldier, wounded six others in an attack Monday on a seven-ship convoy along the Mekong River, port police said. The convoy consisted of four barges loaded with munitions, two petroleum tankers and one

120 rebels killed

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian infantrymen killed 120 rebel troops in fighting some nine miles southwest of Phnom Penh, the high command said today.

Government forces lost one killed and four wounded in the clash Monday near Kompong Kaplung, the command reported.

Communist gunners destroyed two ammunition barges, killed one soldier, wounded six others in an attack Monday on a seven-ship convoy along the Mekong River, port police said.

The convoy was reported hit by a heavy barrage of rockets and machine gun fire by gunners on the west bank of the river.

Robert Stone, marketing director for the firm, said the electric vehicle is designed as a second car for urban driving and will not compete for internal combustion engine cars. Stone said he has been driving one for several weeks.

"It's smog-free and silent and when I need a fill-up I just plug a plug in the wall," Stone said. "I think it's the car of the future."

"People laughed at the Volkswagen when it was brought to this country back in the early 1950s, but now you see them everywhere."

Electric auto planned

SEBRING, Fla. (UPI) — Sebring Vanguard, Inc. announced plans Monday for the mass production of an electric automobile that can be recharged by plugging it into a wall socket.

Vanguard said it hoped to build 2,000 of the cars this year. It will be the first electric car since World War II.

The Vanguard is eight feet long and can travel at top speed of 30 miles per hour for 50 miles before it needs recharging, company officials said. It is priced at $2,200.
